Third party disclosure

We may occasionally hire other businesses to provide services on our behalf. Those businesses will be permitted to obtain only the Personal Information they need to deliver the service. While Norman is in no way in control of, nor responsible for, its third parties privacy regime, Norman takes reasonable steps to ensure that these businesses are bound by privacy obligations to protect your Personal Information.

We may disclose your personal information:

- To any of our related entities, employees, officers, insurers, professional advisers, agents, suppliers, sponsors, government agencies or subcontractors insofar as reasonably necessary;
- To third parties who re-sell our goods;
- To third parties who help us analyse the information we collect so that we can administer, support, improve

- or develop our business and the services we provide to you; or
- To any other person with your consent (express or implied).

Where we disclose your Personal Information to third parties, we will request that the third party follow this Privacy Policy regarding the handling your Personal Information.

If there is a change of ownership in our business or a sale or transfer of business assets, we reserve the right to transfer to the extent permissible at law our user databases, including your Personal Information. The information may be disclosed under an agreement to maintain confidentiality. We would seek to only disclose information in good faith and where required by any other above circumstances.

Information that we collect may from time to time be stored, processed in or transferred between parties located outside Australia such as Taiwan. Norman takes reasonable steps to ensure that the parties responsible for the storage of Personal Information on overseas servers adhere to Norman's Privacy Policy.

Is your Personal Information secure?

Norman is committed to ensuring that the information you provide to us is secure. In order to prevent unauthorised access or disclosure of your Personal Information, we have put in place suitable physical, electronic and managerial procedures to safeguard and secure information and protect it from misuse, interference, loss and unauthorised access, modification and disclosure.

Notwithstanding the preceding paragraph, the transmission and exchange of information is carried out at your own risk. We cannot guarantee the security of any information. While we take commercially reasonable measures to maintain a secure site, electronic communications and databases are subject to errors, tampering and break-ins. Norman cannot guarantee that loss, misuse, unauthorised acquisition, or alteration of your data will not occur, and we will not be liable to users for any such occurrences.
